

2 DRY AGENTS HELD AS RUM CONVOYS

Two Federal prohibition agents, charged with conveying five liquor laden trucks along a Long Island road, were arraigned before United States Commissioner Epstein in Brooklyn and held in $3,000 bail each for hearing July 30. The arraignment disclosed that John J. Kerrigan of No. 643 East Seventeenth street, one of the agents attached to the staff of Captain John W. Inglesby, Deputy Administrator of Eastern New York, had been reinstated in the department despite the fact that he had been involved in charges in 1924 and 1925.

Charges against him included carrying burglars' tools and assaulting a nineteen-year-old boy with a bottle during a raid on the night club.

The other agent is John J. Calnan, of No. 296 Nassau road, Roosevelt, L. I.

They were charged with transporting liquor at Riverhead, L. I., June 19. Late that night Deputy Sheriff William Lindsay of Peconic was retiring when he saw a procession of three trucks, a coupe and two small trucks bringing up the rear. Becoming suspicious, he drove in his own car to Riverhead and turned a traffic light against the caravan.

After he had stopped the first three trucks, Lindsay said, the two agents got out of the coupe, in which they were driving with a constable, who said he was "showing them the road." They explained that they had made a liquor seizure near Mattituck, though their route took them past that village after Lindsay had first seen the procession, and were taking the liquor to the army base in Brooklyn.

DRY AGENTS HELD FOR CONVOYING RUM VANS

Associated Press 1929
NEW YORK, July 2.—Two Federal prohibition agents were under arrest today accused of conveying a fleet of liquor trucks on Long Island.

The agents, John J. Kerrigan and John J. Calnan, were held in $3,000 bail each after Deputy Sheriff William Lindsay, of Peconic, N. Y., told a United States commissioner he found them escorting a caravan of five trucks through Riverhead, N. Y., on the night of June 19.

Kerrigan's record in the prohibition enforcement field showed he had been previously arrested for threatening with a loaded revolver, John Devlin, Safety Director of Bayonne, N. J.; for assaulting a man in a raid on a night club, and for possessing burglar tools. All the charges were dismissed.

Both agents were suspended pending outcome of the charges. United States Attorney Ameli, of Brooklyn, said they would be prosecuted under the Jones law for transporting liquor.

MORE OF AMELI'S AIDES DUE TO LEAVE OFFICE

With resignations of Assistant United States Attorneys James J. Duggan and Maurice J. Dinnerstein accepted by the United States Attorney-General's office in Washington, as announced by United States Attorney Ameli, in Brooklyn, several more of his assistants are due to go.

Both Dinnerstein and Duggan, it was announced, would retire to private practice. 7/2/29

Judges Runyon and Fake Require but Sixteen Minutes for Task

7/9/29
Padlocks clicked at the rate of three a minute in Federal Court this afternoon.

Judges Runyon and Fake, sitting together, ordered padlocks for fifty-two places for violation of the prohibition laws. The proceedings took sixteen minutes. The places closed include ten Newark establishments and four cafes in Atlantic City, the Little Inn, the Lincoln Cafe, Cat 'n Fiddle and Martinique Cafe.

Considerable delay was caused by a misunderstanding. Judge Clark was scheduled to hear the eighty-six cases today, relieving Judge Fake, who has handled the list for the past few months.

All defendants appeared at Judge Fake's chambers in the Post-office building at 10 A. M. and were told to go to Judge Clark's chambers in the Chamber of Commerce building. The group waited there until after noon, when word came from Judge Clark he could not hear the cases today and that he had not understood he was to do so.

Judges Fake and Runyon were called and they decided to sit together.

The list of places follows: Joseph Braccio, 459 Ferry street; Antonio Brodissel, 150 South Orange avenue; John Kasack, 25 Avenue C; Alex Kubsic, 634 1/2 Springfield avenue; William Lind, 396 South Orange avenue; Gregory Masink, 564 Market street; James Thomson, 231 Ferry street; John Zdoness, 347 Market street; Jacob Holzer, 157 Walnut street, Newark.

List 88 Places for Padlocks Next Week

Eighty-eight saloons and speak-easies are listed to be padlocked in Federal Court Tuesday. This is the largest number ever listed for a Federal Court session in Newark.

Not since the enactment of the prohibition law has such a drive been made against alleged violators. Assistant United States District Attorney Grimshaw said today that twenty-five of the cases had been prepared by Hudson County Prosecutor Drewen. Assistant Prosecutor Eisenberg will present the Hudson cases.

Federal Judge Clark, who has been away several weeks, will return in time to hear the cases. For more than two months Judge Fake has heard these matters. 7/6/29
