RISING SUN BREWERY PADLOCK IS ORDERED

Trenton Times 3/1/32

Federal Judge William Clark today ordered the Rising Sun Brewery at Elizabeth, where John Finiello, dry agent, was killed during a raid, padlocked for one year.

Counsel for the company consented to the order, ending suddenly proceedings the government instituted many months ago. The brewery was raided in September, 1930, but the defendant company carried the issue of the legality of the raid to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, where the warrant was held valid.

The brewery is on Seventh Street between Elizabeth Avenue and Marshall Street. The government agents also raided a building across the street, where equipment was seized. The defendants assert the search warrant did not cover those premises and the United States Attorney has been ordered to show cause before Federal Judge John Boyd Avis why the property should not be returned to the owners.

Revolutionary Rule Made in Federal Court Here—Licenses Conditional

Attorneys hereafter admitted to practice in the New Jersey Federal Court will be granted a conditional rather than an absolute license and must serve a probationary period of five years under a new rule announced by Judge William Clark, senior member of the court.

At the end of five years the conditional license may be revoked, unless the candidate has shown by his conduct during that time that "he is worthy of the confidence of the court and the public."

The revolutionary change, which has the concurrence of Judges Guy L. Fake and J. Boyd Avis, is effective at once. Those seeking admission must present satisfactory qualifications as to practice and procedure. If objections are raised, the attorney may petition for a rule to show cause why he should not be admitted and a hearing will then be held.

"The court believes," said Judge Clark, "that the bar examiners and character committee obtain only a very inadequate indication of the final intellectual and ethical development of a young man of 21 or so who has had no experience in the trials and temptations of actual practice."

The government today launched a fresh drive against the Rising Sun Brewery, Elizabeth, in an effort to seize equipment valued at $350,000.

Special Assistant United States Attorney Samuel Cohen sought to prove that illegal beer was found on the premises the night that John Finiello, Philadelphia dry agent, was slain there in a battle with racketeers.

Counsel for the brewery, headed by Frederick M. P. Pearse and including Kenneth G. Caughman, of Elizabeth, attacked testimony of the dry agents and subjected them to cross-examination.

Mr. Cohen and Mr. Pearse frequently became embroiled in arguments which were finally settled by Judge John Boyd Avis, who is presiding.

A padlocking decree was granted by the court a few days ago against the brewery.

RAIDERS S... ALL EQUIPMENT AT STORE HERE

Agents, Acting Under New Ruling, Summon Trucks from Camden

Federal dry agents this afternoon made preparations to remove the entire contents of a malt and hops store at 453-55 South Broad Street, following a raid upon the premises.

Harry Sharlip, of the South Broad Street address, was arrested as the alleged proprietor. Federal agents reported that they found "several hundred gallons of liquor."

A recent Federal Court ruling permits authorities to confiscate all property related to illegal sale. However, the interpretation has never been invoked here previously as a basis for removing all property from a raided place.

Arrangements were made by telephone for three trucks to come here from Camden to remove the store's contents, valued at $5,000.

Sharlip was released under bail of $2,500 to await Federal prosecution on a sale and possession charge.

USE NEW RULE IN MALT STORE RAID

Trenton Times 3/11/32

Contents of "Harry's Malt Store" at 453-55 South Broad Street, opposite Hamilton Avenue, were removed last night, following a raid in which Harry Charlip, alleged proprietor, was arrested.

The merchandise seized has a value estimated at $10,000. In confiscating the property, Federal dry agents acted under authority of a recent court ruling permitting the removal of all articles connected with the alleged illegal sale and possession of liquor. It was the first time that the ruling has been applied here in its more drastic form.

Charlip gave bail of $2,500 before United States Commissioner Marvin A. Spaulding.

A crowd watched the proceedings last night as three huge trucks were laden with kegs, bottles, cans of malt, crocks and other paraphenalia. Agents reported that they found several hundred gallons of alleged liquor in the place.

J. E. Crannage, of 605 Princeton Avenue, has been held in bail of $1,000 following another raid by Federal agents. Beer coils were destroyed by the raiders.

Medalie to Prosecut[e] Landlords, Agents If They Do

If landlords weren't havin[g] enough trouble, what with ren[t] riots, rent strikes, rent reduction[s] —and sometimes, no rent at al[l]— Federal Attorney George Z. Medalie is giving them something more to worry about.

Medalie declares that landlords renting their places to speakeasy proprietors will be subject to criminal prosecution if it is proved that they were cognizant of the tenant's business.

RENTING AGENTS, TOO.

Renting agents, too, will be subpect to charges if they knowingly rent a place to be used as a speakeasy.

Brillia and the restaurant employes were held for hearings March 29. The proprietor's bail was set at $1,000, that of the others at $500 each.

MORE WET ARRESTS MADE IN JERSEY

Trenton Times 3/15/32

(Washington Bureau of the Times)

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Federal prohibition officers made more arrests and seized more contraband liquor in February than in January in New Jersey and the courts disposed of more Federal prohibition cases last month than in the month preceding, according to the monthly report of the Bureau of Prohibition.

The report reveals that the Federal agents made arrests in 205 cases in the State in February as compared with 165 in the preceding month, and 67 persons were ordered held by the U. S. Commissioner in February as against 63 in January.

It is shown also that 89 cases were placed on the docket in February as compared with 108 in January. In February there were 154 pleas of guilty in Federal liquor cases in the State, 19 verdicts of guilty, and seven acquittals, leaving 534 cases unfinished at the end of the month, compared with seven pleas of guilty, one verdict of guilty and 12 acquittals, leaving 625 cases on the docket at the end of January.

The average fine assessed on dry law offenders was $212 in February, as compared with $500 in fines in the preceding month.
