

Saloon in Shadow of U. S. Building Facing Padlock

United States District Attorney

Forman today filed padlock proceedings against an alleged saloon that lies within the shadow of the Federal Building.

The action is directed against an establishment at 241 Postoffice Alley. Charles Douglas is named as proprietor; George Lynn, an employe, and Abe Appelstein is said to be the owner of the property.

It is charged that liquor was purchased by agents three times during November, 1929.

Mr. Forman regarded the ironic location with reserved humor.

"Can you see the place from your office?" he was asked.

"No," he said, "but you can throw a stone to it."
