ELABORATE RADIO SIGNAL DEVICE USED TO DIRECT OUTLAW SHIPS

NEWARK, Oct. 17 (AP).—William J. Calhoun, prohibition administrator for New Jersey who directed yesterday's raids which smashed a $1,000,000 rum ring, today studied seized records which local newspapers said revealed "the apparent payment of large sums to public officials."

Calhoun said there was "every evidence" that the syndicate was forced out of existence in the midst of a period of expansion which was making it "more and more" powerful. Papers found in the organization's sumptuous headquarters at Atlantic Highlands disclosed $300,000 had been spent in one month in Montreal, and $75,000 in another month. Salesmen's memorandums told of hundreds of large sales.

Calhoun's agents searched the North Jersey shore today for the ring's liquor cache. A quantity of liquor was seized in the various places raided, but officials believed a large store was hidden away in the vicinity.
