PEARSE APPEALS CONTEMPT FINE

Trenton Times 11/4/31

Lawyer Cites He Was Penalized Without Privilege Of Hearing

Frederic M. P. Pearse, Newark attorney, today appealed an order of Federal Judge George Bourquin holding him in contempt of court and fining him $50.

Pearse, through his counsel, former Federal Judge Charles F. Lynch, in the appeal to the United States Circuit Court, denied contempt, asserted that if any contempt were committed it was criminal in nature, and contended judgment was entered without giving him opportunity to be heard.

Judge Bourquin held Pearse in contempt October 27 and in his opinion asserted the attorney filed an untrue answer and attempted to obstruct justice. Pearse was defense attorney in padlock proceedings brought by the government against "The Little Hof-Brau," 556 Broad Street, Newark Persons named were Gus Gschrey, William Loughlin, Peter Brunmenaier and Louise McCormick.

30,000-GALLON STILL STIRS JUDGE TO GASP

Trenton Times 11/5/31

Federal Judge Bourquin handed out stiff sentences today in the United States District Court here to two men who were charged with liquor law violations.

"A 30,000-gallon still?" gasped the Court when informed of the seizure of a distilling plant by agents in Belleville. "Why that's the largest I ever heard of since I've been here. My, my, a 30,000-gallon still."

Then he sentenced Sam Condono, of Belleville, and Niolo Caputo, of Newark, each to serve 12 months and a day at hard labor in jail and to pay a $1,000 fine each.

Defense counsel explained that Condono had only pleaded guilty to possession of liquor, and therefore could not be sentenced to jail.

"Only possession?" asked the Court. "Very well, the fine can stand for him."

Then he demanded an explanation from Assistant United States Attorney Griggs why the prisoner had only entered a plea of guilty to the possession charge.

Griggs explained that Condono was in another section of the premises when the raid occurred.

Eng Kim, of Astoria, Long Island, and Chin Lung Toy, of Newark, were each ordered to pay a fine of $150 for narcotic law violations.

"Smoking opium is little worse than drinking moonshine," said Judge Bourquin. "It's all in the same category. The United States does not intend to punish smoking. It only places a restriction on its entry into the country."

Judge Clark Says He'd K... Dry Trespassers Off P...

Federal Judge William Clark has his own remedy for dealing with prohibition agents who trespass. It was prescribed yesterday afternoon while a motion was being made to quash a search warrant.

"I know what I would do if prohibition agents came on my property," said Judge Clark, as Lewis J. Tutt, deputy prohibition administrator, and three of the department's counsel, sat in the court room. "I would kick them off so fast you couldn't see them for the dust. If I needed any assistance I would call in the chief of police at Princeton and he would help me kick them off." Judge Clark lives in Princeton.

William Harris, counsel for George Paglie, 67 Alyea street, whose property is adjacent to a garage raided ten days ago as a beer drop, said he did not want to tackle the agents in the manner suggested by the court and he felt sure the police would not assist him because the agents were armed with the search warrant.

"But you say that the warrant is illegal," said Judge Clark. "Go to the police and have the agents kicked off."

COURT WARNS OF JUGGLING OF CASH

Trenton Times 11/4/31

Two men, one a bank clerk, were sentenced in Federal Court today by Judge Avis for misapplication of bank funds, and for aiding and abetting in the crime.

William H. Pollack, of Brooklyn, a bank depositor, was sentenced to serve six months in jail and to pay a fine of $1,000. Allan Buckley, the clerk, residing at Woodbridge, who is charged with aiding in the act, was also sentenced to six months and a fine of $1,000, but the jail term was suspended. He was placed on probation for six months.

In pronouncing sentence, the judge said he had in mind the fact that Buckley has a wife and a child and that he has been supporting an elderly father and mother.

However, he minced no words in severely reprimanding Buckley, declaring that the "Court cannot look upon this crime lightly and it doesn't think that it should."

A few minutes before that, Assistant United States Attorney Petry had demanded that the crime was committed with intent to defraud and that a jail sentence should be pronounced in keeping with the crime.

An eloquent plea was made by W... Holt Apgar, counsel for Buckley, who declared that his client was doing everything possible to make amends, that he was now employed in a Perth Amboy bank, and that he had several persons to support on his meagre salary.

"There wasn't any criminal thought," declared Apgar.

But Petry was not of this opinion and he called attention to the fact that "if this crime is to go unpunished with a sentence in keeping with the law, there is nothing to prevent other bank employes from taking money from the till, with the thought that the bonding company will meet the defalcations."

"Banks are losing money through these pilferings," Petry continued, "and the depositors, the innocent third persons, are the sufferers. This certainly warrants a jail sentence."

Judge Avis, in sentencing Buckley, said in part:

"You haven't had the highest ideals where money matters are taken into consideration. Your previous record reveals that. I'm going to give you an opportunity to make good. That is due to your family. This morning I received a letter from your wife which attested to the fact that you were a good and loyal husband and father. You ought to be made to realize what you have done and, therefore, I am going to penalize you."
